UNCLASSIFIED*RELEASED

The information in this list is based on a compilation of all available sources (as of 5/10/91) and contains the names of those individuals who, as far as can be determined, may be identified as political prisoners in China. The definition of political prisoners includes those individuals incarcerated either:

E1

- a) without charge for exercising a fundamental human right or because of race, religion, nationality, or political opinion;
- b) in accordance with a law that is illegitimate under international human rights standards;
- c) based on trumped-up charges; or
- d) for politically motivated acts and who receive unduly harsh or disproportionate treatment or punishment based on race, religion, nationality, or political opinion.

Generally, this definition—and therefore this list—does not include those who, regardless of motivation, have engaged in acts of violence. Some individuals who have reportedly been accused of acts of violence figure on the list because of conflicting reports on the nature of their actual activities.

KEY

Name: Capitalis indicate female; alternative spellings provided where available.
Age: In many cases, especially Tiananmen-related, may be age at time of detention.
Occupation: As noted. "Hong Kong" or "Macao" in this column indicates that the individual is a native of one of these places.
Status: Date of detention, arrest or sentencing. "Detention" indicates no formal charges; "arrest" indicates charges have been filed; "sentenced" indicates completion of judicial or administrative processing.
Location: Generally the location of detention, arrest or sentencing.
Charges/Comments: Lists charges or accusations as well as additional identifying information such as work/school details, affiliations, length of sentence, etc.
